DESCRIPTION

Bringing together top listening scholars from a range of disciplines and real world perspectives, Listening and Human Communication in the 21st Century offers a state-of-the-art overview of what we know and think about listening behavior in the 21st century.

- Introduces students to the core issues listening theory and practice

- Includes student friendly features such as editorial introductions to each section and questions for further reflection at the end of each chapter

- Discussion ranges from historical perspectives to present theory, to teaching and performing listening in the classroom, in health care, and in corporate settings

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Andrew D. Wolvin is Professor in the Department of Communication at the University of Maryland, USA. He has published extensively in the International Journal of Listening, and he is the author of several books, including Perspectives on Listening (with

FEATURES

- Introduces students to the core issues listening theory and practice
- Includes student friendly features such as editorial introductions to each section and questions for further reflection at the end of each chapter
- An edited textbook which brings together top scholarship from a range of disciplines

For additional product details, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-gb