

Edited by Gordon Wells and Guy Claxton

Learning for Life in the 21st Century: Sociocultural Perspectives on the Future of Education

Gordon Wells (Editor), Guy Claxton (Editor)

E-Book	978-0-470-75208-1	April 2008	$48.99
Paperback	978-0-631-22331-3	June 2002	$60.25
Hardcover	978-0-631-22330-6	June 2002	$172.50
O-Book	978-0-470-75354-5	January 2008	Available on Wiley Online Library

DESCRIPTION

United by the belief that the most significant factor in shaping the minds of young people is the cultural setting in which learning takes place, the twenty eminent contributors to this volume present new thinking on education across the boundaries of school, home, work and community.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gordon Wells is Professor of Education at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Guy Claxton is Visiting Professor of Learning Science at the University of Bristol.

FEATURES

-

- Includes contributions from leading educational thinkers in Finland, Italy, Japan, New Zealand, the UK and the US
-
- Looks at the implications of a sociocultural perspective for the future of education
-
- Crosses the boundaries of education at school, home, work and in the community
-
- Creates a picture of what education needs to become in order to prepare people for the challenges of the future
-
- Structured to correspond to the chronological organization of education

To purchase this product, please visit <https://www.wiley.com/en-us/9780470752081>