Hamilton and Hardy's Industrial Toxicology, 6th Edition
Raymond D. Harbison, Marie M. Bourgeois, Giffe T. Johnson

DESCRIPTION

Providing a concise, yet comprehensive, reference on all aspects of industrial exposures and toxicants; this book aids toxicologists, industrial hygienists, and occupational physicians to investigate workplace health problems.

- Updates and expands coverage with new chapters covering regulatory toxicology, toxicity testing, physical hazards, high production volume (HPV) chemicals, and workplace drug use
- Includes information on occupational and environmental sources of exposure, mammalian toxicology, industrial hygiene, medical management and ecotoxicology
- Retains a succinct chapter format that has become the hallmark for the previous editions
- Distils a vast amount of information into one resource for both academics and professionals

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Raymond Harbison is a Professor of Environmental and Occupational Health and of Pathology and Pharmacology at the University of South Florida. He has more than thirty years of experience as a toxicologist, pharmacologist, and human health risk assessor.
Marie Bourgeois is a Research Assistant Professor at University of South Florida. With Masters and Doctorate degrees in Toxicology and Risk Assessment, she teaches undergraduate courses related to environmental, occupational, and public health.

Giffe Johnson is a Research Assistant Professor at University of South Florida. He has published and presented research on a variety of topics related to environmental and occupational health.

For additional product details, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us