DESCRIPTION

Contributors examine the relationship between science and clinical practice; the development, assessment and regulation of health care technologies; and the implications of the 'new genetics'.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mary Ann Elston is Senior Lecturer in Sociology at Royal Holloway, University of London. Her research interests include the organisation of biomedical research, the health care professions and gender and health care. She is co-editor of the journal Sociology of Health and Illness.

FEATURES

• Provides a bridge between the sociology of medicine and the sociology of science and technology

• Opens up the 'black box' of medical technologies to sociological scrutiny.
To purchase this product, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us/9780631204473