DESCRIPTION

In this collection, Robert Segal, one of the leading interpreters of theories of myth, seeks to provide a comprehensive analysis of the myth and ritual theory.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Robert A. Segal is Professor in the Department of Religious Studies at Lancaster University. He previously taught in the United States and has held positions at Stanford, Louisiana State University, University of Pittsburgh and Tulane. He has published widely in the field of religious studies, including three previous books on myth and ritual.

FEATURES

• Provides a comprehensive, interdisciplinary overview of the topic.

• Offers a thorough introduction and analysis of each theory.

• Written by the acknowledged leading authority on the subject.
For additional product details, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us