DESCRIPTION

This book introduces readers to the ancient rhetorical tradition by investigating key questions about the origins, nature and importance of rhetoric.

- Explores the role of the orator, especially the two greatest figures of the tradition, Demosthenes and Cicero

- Investigates the place of rhetoric at the center of ancient education

- Considers the role of rhetoric since the end of antiquity.

- Includes a glossary of proper names and technical terms; a chronological table of political events, authors, orators, and rhetorical works; and suggestions for further reading.
ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Thomas Habinek is Professor of Classics at the University of Southern California. He is the author of The Politics of Latin Literature: Writing, Identity, and Empire (1998) and the editor of The Roman Cultural Revolution (1997).

FEATURES

- An introduction to the ancient rhetorical tradition.
- Investigates key questions about the origins, nature and importance of rhetoric
- Explores the role of the orator, especially the two greatest figures of the tradition, Demosthenes and Cicero
- Investigates the place of rhetoric at the center of ancient education
- Considers the role of rhetoric since the end of antiquity.
- Includes a glossary of proper names and technical terms; a chronological table of political events, authors, orators, and rhetorical works; and suggestions for further reading.

SERIES

Blackwell Introductions to the Classical World

To purchase this product, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us/9780631235149