America, Sea Power, and the World
James C. Bradford

DESCRIPTION

This survey of American naval history features original chapters from key scholars in the field that trace the relationship between the American Navy and the position of the United States on the global political stage over the past 250 years.

• Places equal weight on the influence of major wartime campaigns and naval efforts to defend and expand America’s political and economic interests during times of peace

• Includes an array of illustrations and 56 new maps, seamlessly integrated within each chapter

• Each chapter features sidebars with biographical sketches of influential leaders and descriptions of weapons and technological developments of the era

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

James C. Bradford is professor of naval and early American history at Texas A&M University. A past president of the North American Society for Oceanic History, he held the Class of 1957 Distinguished Chair in Naval Heritage at the U.S. Naval Academy, and was the recipient of the George H.W. Bush Excellence Award for Faculty in International Teaching and the Commodore Dudley W. Knox Naval History Lifetime Achievement Award from the Naval Historical Foundation. Bradford has published several

For additional product details, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us