This collection offers a new way of looking at neoliberalisation and new understandings of contemporary processes of professionalisation.

- This collection offers a new way of looking at neoliberalisation.

- Presents new understandings of contemporary processes of professionalisation.

- Draws on new, original research.

- Features studies from the Global North and the Global South.

Nina Laurie is Senior Lecturer in the School of Geography, Politics and Sociology at the University of Newcastle, UK. She works collaboratively with colleagues at CESU, San Simón University, Bolivia. Together with Robert Andolina and Sarah Radcliffe she is...
Liz Bondi is Professor of Social Geography at the University of Edinburgh. She is founding editor of the journal Gender, Place and Culture, the co-author of Subjectivities, Knowledges and Feminist Geographies (2002) and co-editor of Emotional Geographies (2005).

FEATURES

- Explores the central characteristics of neoliberalism found in social democratic regimes including economic liberalisation and an emphasis on “rolling back the state”.

- This collection offers a new way of looking at neoliberalisation.

- Presents new understandings of contemporary processes of professionalisation.

- Draws on new, original research.

- Features studies from the Global North and the Global South.

SERIES

Antipode Book Series
For additional product details, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us