DESCRIPTION

Toleration, Respect and Recognition in Education brings together a collection of papers examining the complexity of different interpretations of toleration, respect and recognition in education.

- Discusses different theories of toleration and shows how it lies at the centre of a liberal pluralistic society
- Brings together the work of leading scholars from a range of disciplines
- Examines how education can accommodate diversity and promote shared public values

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mitja Sardoc is a researcher at the Educational Research Institute in Ljubljana, Slovenia, where he is currently engaged in research projects on citizenship education and multiculturalism. His research focuses on political theory and philosophy of education. He has edited a number of journal special issues on citizenship education and has interviewed some of the most renowned contemporary political philosophers on the topic of education and political theory, including Michael Walzer, Iris Marion Young and Martha C. Nussbaum. He is Executive Editor of Theory and Research in Education.
Educational Philosophy and Theory Special Issues

For additional product details, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us