DESCRIPTION

Through a series of case studies from around the world, Capitalism and Conservation presents a critique of conservation’s role as a central driver of global capitalism.

• Features innovative new research on case studies on the connections between capitalism and conservation drawn from all over the world

• Examines some of our most popular leisure pursuits and consumption habits to uncover the ways they drive and deepen global capitalism

• Reveals the increase in intensity and variety of forms of capitalist conservation throughout the world

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Rosaleen Duffy is Professor of International Politics at Manchester University. She is author or co-author of several books, including Killing for Conservation (2000), A Trip Too Far: Politics, Ecotourism and Exploitation (2002), and Nature Crime: How We’re Getting Conservation Wrong (forthcoming, 2010).

SERIES

Antipode Book Series

To purchase this product, please visit https://www.wiley.com/en-us/9781444338348